Business Overview & History

The organization will seek to make a difference in the Albany, Georgia area by offering services to the Hispanic community and helping to alleviate the gap that exists in the Hispanic community when domestic violence is involved. We will fund our operations by fundraisers and grant writing.

The company is operated by Kathia Collins, and volunteers will be recruited to help with the daily operations.

Company Services

The company provides mentoring, tutoring, and life skills training to help those experiencing child abuse, domestic violence, and re-enter program (society). The services will be offered one-on-one and with families that are suffering.

The mission of the organization is to support those by providing support services through their trials with transitioning, domestic violence, and child abuse.

Company Summary

Haven of Hope will provide services for all individuals and/or children of all nationalities. We will take on tasks unlike any other safehouse center and/ or shelter by going out in the field to educate and empower those whom are suffering by this disease that steals their identity by stagnating who they are and acknowledging their self worth. Our focus also involves educating our minority community in the needs improvement area of Dougherty County. These needs are essential ones that can't be over looked because if they are not taken care of, Dougherty County will have a larger poverty population and many more new issues to deal with.
